

Business Lawyer Richmond

Business Lawyer Richmond - Among our client comprise financial institutions, leasing and financing companies, and other non-bank lenders. We often help them to structure and document various loan transactions. Loan transactions may include lines of credit, term loans, asset-based loans, revolving credit facilities, lease financings, subordinated financings, real estate development financings and motion picture financings.

Our business clients even rely on us to help them in arranging, negotiating, and getting credit facilities.

Public sector financing, along with assistance programs and structures, are really familiar to our attorneys. They have vast experience concerning industrial development transactions, industrial revenue bond issuances, local and state development agency financings and programs.

In addition, our lawyers assist borrowers and lenders with loan restructurings and work-outs.
