

Legal Services Richmond

Legal Services Richmond - Our company represents a number of North American production corporations together with a collection of federal/provincial agencies, animation houses, banks, actors, directors, writers and service providers.

We advise our several client's in the film and television business on the subjects concerning co-production partners and distribution, banking transactions, tax credits and government funding, negotiations with broadcasters, guild and union concerns, and any other production or financing problems they might come across.

For the on-location productions, we provide services and advice about film tax credits and withholding tax, regulatory requirements and investment rules, in addition to possible problems involving guilds and unions within Canada and the United States.

The main focal point of our team of lawyers focuses on television, the new media and film industries. We work with and are accompanied by various groups including our Intellectual Property, Labour & Employment, and Tax groups. A unique perspective is developed by our head lawyer, who relies on his securities law and entertainment law skill to be able to offer our clients with brilliant recommendation regarding corporate and project-based funding.
